Historical goof

Firemen torch home in burning blunder

PLEASANTON — "We regret this very much, it won't happen again," said Public Safety Chief Walt McCloud after area firemen burned down the historically significant Jeremiah Fallon house on Foothill Road by mistake Friday afternoon.

After much unoffical communications between fire officials in Pleasanton, Livermore and the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy and offices of the property owners, Stoneson Development Company, a green light was given the practice burn.

A controlled fire was set at the homestead of one of Dublin's founders, just south of the interchange of Foothill and Interstate 580, about 2 p.m. It was supposed to be a training burn for the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy, a joint program of the Livermore, Pleasanton and Valley Community Services District fire departments, in cooperation with Chabot College.

For members of the Dublin Historical Preservation Association and particularly Marie Cronin who had led efforts to relocate the old house, built in 1856, to a site alongside St. Raymond's Church in Dublin, the burning was a disaster.

Alameda County had granted $30,000 to restore and relocate the historical structure and Pleasanton contributed $3,000 to the project. According to Marie Cronin, "We were within two days of getting the moving permit when these people show up and start burning the house down. We had no warning whatsoever."

Pleasanton City Manager Bill Edgar is expected to make a complete report to the city council tomorrow night. There may be some administrative changes as a result of the giant goof.

Meanwhile, Pleasanton Fire Captain George Withers and Fire Prevention Officer Ted Klenk have submitted a report on the training fire that shouldn't have been. They detail earlier conversations with Stoneson Development Company representatives which led to authorization for the practice burn.

It is still not clear whether the training fire was supposed to take place on another structure located about 200 yards from the Fallon home on property also owned by Stoneson.

Mrs. Cronin, Dublin Historical Preservation Association President Judy Earl and other members of the group are hopping mad but the outcome of the Bicentennial blunder is still in doubt.

Good Times parade units march today

The Third "Good Times" parade, featuring 250 units and 4,000 participants ranging from the sublime to the ridiculous, marches off from the area of Amador Valley High School today at 1:30 p.m. Valley residents planning to attend would do well to park a mile or two away from the parade route (Santa Rita Road and Main Street) and walk or bike the rest of the distance.

Between 25 and 35,000 spectators are expected. The KNBR-sponsored parade will be broadcast on a delayed basis following the Oakland A's game.

The Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce invites all parade-goers to make it a day-long event and start by coming to their pancake breakfast at the Fairgrounds cafeteria in Pleasanton. Breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. 'till noon. The chamber will also have a bar setup at the Fairgrounds throughout the day.

A barbecue will follow the parade, starting at approximately 4:30 p.m.

KNBR is inviting everyone to come to the Fairgrounds afterwards and bring a picnic lunch. Informal entertainment will be provided.

Pleasanton Police advise that valley residents wishing to travel from eastern or western portions of Pleasanton will have to use Santa Rita Road from Stanley Boulevard to Valley Avenue Valley will give access to Hopyard Road from which you can reach any portion of the western part of the city.

Stanley Boulevard will give you access to First Street for reaching eastern and southern parts of the city. Bernal will be closed at Pleasanton Avenue for incoming traffic.

Fairgrounds - vicinity parking will be allowed only on the south side of Bernal, on a portion of the Soil Conservation Property off of Rose Avenue, and in the Western Pacific parking lots (use Angela Street entrance only). A fee of 50 cents will be charged.

Pleasanton fights rule on meet, confer policy

PLEASANTON — The city has appealed to the state Supreme Court in a landmark public employe labor law decision.

The city's legal staff last week filed the appeal with the Supreme Court over a decision which favored the city's firefighters last month.

The appellate court had ruled that the city was obligated to hold "meet and confer" sessions with the firefighters before restructuring the upper echelons of the fire department. The city took the position that it was a management decision and the "meet and confer" provisions of the Meyer - Milias - Brown Act did not apply to such a decision.

The appellate court decision is so significant — to city managements at least — that many cities in California are filing "friend of the court" briefs in support of Pleasanton, reported Assistant City Attorney Harvey Levine. Sacramento already has filed its brief, and Hayward, Fremont, Lodi and other cities have indicated support.

Levine thinks the appellate court decision may make it hard for cities to set regulations governing employes. Traditionally only wages and hours were the subject of "meet and confer" rules, but now seemingly decisions previously reserved to the management function also are subject to "meet and confer," said Levine.

"Meet and confer in our city is like bargaining," said Levine. "We have a procedure to settle impasses. It may become difficult for cities to set regulations if we have to go through that procedure."

Bill Barry, president of the local firefighters union which brought the suit originally, was unavailable for comment.

Mori spurs new legislation for full 'Tokyo Rose' pardon

Assemblyman S. Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) is spearheading legislative efforts to grant a full pardon to the woman convicted of treason against the United States as the legendary "Tokyo Rose" of World War II.

Introduced in the Assembly Wednesday was a resolution asking President Ford to grant a full, unconditional pardon to Iva Toguri d'Aquino who was "unjustly accused, tried and convicted" for treason as the mythical "Tokyo Rose" — the voice which alledgedly carried radio propaganda and demoraliziing statements to U.S. troops during World Way War II.

Mori has gathered the support of 54 other legislators who have added their names as co-authors.

Mori called d'Aquino the "victim of a tragic legend." He said there is now "overwhelming evidence that her 1949 treason trial was one of the most disgraceful miscarriages of justice in the history of the federal courts."

Mori explained that d'Aquino was a U.S. citizen born and raised in the Los Angeles area who was summoned to Japan to care for a sick relative when the war broke out.

"Her parents were placed in relocation camps here and she had no money to pay for her trip out of Japan," Mori said. "Her job as a typist for Radio Tokyo led to orders from the Japanese Army to broadcast propaganda to the U.S. troops at sea."

Mori said she watered down their anti-American propaganda, refused their pressure to become a Japanese citizen and consistently told her captors they would lose the war.

"But when the war ended and she returned to her native country, she was tried and found guilty of treason against the United States," Mori said. "She was stripped of her citizenship, forced to spend eight and a half years in prison and pay a $10,000 fine."

Mori said that a pardon would not undo the years she spent in prison, but he said it would restore her citizenship — "something she fought for throughout the war years," he said.

"This is the least the United States can do for Iva Toguri d'Aquino. She was never a turncoat — but a scapegoat," Mori concluded.

Concert today

Pleasanton — Following the big third annual Good Times parade today the Bicentennial Band, under the direction of Jerry Lapinski, will present several bicentennial selections at Wayside Park. The bandstand has been refurbished for the occasion.

City expects protests in $6,900 subsidy cut

PLEASANTON — A protest over the city council's elimination of $6,900 worth of cash subsidies to youth recreation groups may be in the offing.

Elimination of the cash subsidies from the city budget for the coming fiscal year was approved by a 4-1 vote of the city council Tuesday.

Councilman William Herlihy cast the lone vote against the cut. He wanted the funds to remain in the budget for another year to give the private recreation groups enough lead time to replace the money through their own fund - raisers.

The council majority agreed with Councilman Frank Brandes who felt that the $6,900 is spread so thin it doesn't have that much impact on any single group. He felt they would have little problem raising the money elsewhere.

The council will formally adopt its preliminary budget tomorrow and Herlihy told The Times that he has heard Little League supporters will be on hand to protest elimination of the cash subsidies. The Little League sources were unavailable for comment as of press time.

Ford visits

President Ford will be in Walnut Creek Tuesday on a Northern California campaign appearance. It is the closest any U.S. President has come to the valley in recent years.

Ford will arrive in Walnut Creek at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday. He will make a speech at Broadway Shopping Center in Front of Bullock's Department Store.

His campaign workers note that voters "of all political persuasions" are invited to attend the rally.

Democratic presidential contender Jimmy Carter had planned to visit Rossmoor Thursday, but that event has been cancelled due to scheduling difficulties.

Valley poker buff makes hit

What do you say to a man who just polkaed off a head-to-head poker game with $41,600 in his pocket?

"Hi. Buy me a cup of coffee?"

You don't invite him to sit down at your neighborhood, penny-ante poker game.

Not that he would accept the invitation. Howard "Tahoe" Anderson — "I got the name because I play a lot at Lake Tahoe and know a lot of the dealers and gamblers up there" — confines his sport to that other state. Our neighbor in iniquity over there where gambolling is not confined to a frisky frolic through Mom Nature's scented woods.

But the thought of $41,600 — forty-one and six big ones net — drives we mere mortals right straight up one of Mom's better pinnacles.

How do you do it? (Dumb questions come easily to the awe struck.) Where did you learn? Will you teach me? Play with my money? Can I shine your shoes?

"Well," said Pleasanton's very own World Champion Non - professional Poker Player (back to that in a minute), "I won the two championships, but I lost in the High Stakes World Series."

"Tahoe," you see, just took first place in the Non - professional, (It grates the ears like 'a square circle') Hold'em Championship and Preliminary Hold'em Championship.

But, alas, he lost out in the World Championship.

Of course he beat, by my calculations, 91 poker players — 66 of them pros — to get there.

He took $23,600 in the May 8, non - pro event and another $28,000 in the May 12 preliminary at Binion's Horseshoe Club in glittering Las Vegas.

But he lost his $10,000 buy-in at the finals. Doyle "Texas Dolly" Brunson walked off with the damn near winner-take-all pot: $220,000.

He's quite calm when referring to the $10,000 buy-in for the big game. It followed the $2,500 and $1,000 buy-ins of of his earlier enterprises.

How do you just plunk down 10 warm, comely, mortgage paying big ones to play a game of cards?

"I'd rather play poker than anything. There's nothing like a good poker game," the professional General Motors engineer told his salivating interviewer.

And that, of course, is what makes Tahoe a non-pro — one can't say "amateur," now can one?

The pros make their living at gambling. Either playing games across the country or dealing in Nevada casinos.

But our Tahoe only does it for fun.

"I like to play cards. I learned in high school and stuff and, you know ..."

Know? I can't even imagine.

"High stakes" where I come from was the Friday night poker game on Potrero Hill. A nickle raise was an outrage and a net loss of more than 5 bucks sent grandfather into a rage and a week's worth of overtime at the shipyard.

What's "Hold'em poker," asked the office's only experienced gambler?

It's a variation of seven card stud in which each player can match his two hidden "hole cards" — the first dealt — with five cards dealt face up in the center of the table and used in common by all players. Something like Chinese Liars' Dice.

A winning hand is determined by the best combination of five cards according to the standard five card rules.

Tahoe doesn't play anything else. No blackjack, roulette or other cards.

"Those other games are old fashioned. There's no imagination in them. It's like chess compared to checkers."

"Well, there's a lot of luck to it," he continues. "And psychology, you shop around for a card game the way you shop for groceries. I'm looking for a game where some of those guys don't have any experience.

"Some of these guys ... They just want to be able to say they played in the championships. The money means nothing to them."

And does it to you?

And does it to Tahoe?

"Well ... You'll probably stop playing if you start to lose. I got into this because I watched some of these guys and thought, 'Jeeze, I can play better than that.'

"You've got to manage your mind and your money. You've got to discipline yourself, that's all."

He's been playing for high stakes for about three years and thinks he's broken about even. He goes to Nevada every few months.

"They call you when there's a good game going. There's about 10 games going all the time at the Nuggett," another Nevada club.

And how, pray tell, do you win?

"A lot of guys get into patterns. You can put a guy on the way he plays ... But some guys you never can tell ... " His voice trails off into reminiscences of games past. "Sometimes it's best to go off and have a coke."

"What's the biggest pot I've lost? One time there was more than $20,000 in the pot and I got nothing. Didn't get my club and, well, he beat me."

Bobby Hooks is the best, he thinks. "But they're all good. Texas Dolly, Bones, Rabbit, Cadillac, Tall Man, Puggy Wuggy, Amarillo Slim, Sailor ... I'd hate to leave anybody out."

Listen, if I give you 10 bucks, will you play this hand for me ...

Postal pile-up

A Pleasanton man received minor injuries Thursday afternoon when the U.S. Postal Service jeep he was driving went out of control and rolled over while travelling at about 45 mph southbound on Foothill Road north of Muirwood Drive. Michael Raymond Gartrell, 25, of 2197 Arroyo Court was treated and released from Valley Memorial Hospital soon after the accident, a hospital spokesman said. (Times photos by Peter Griffith)

Ridgelands study group

Valley wins strong position

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The valley has the lion's share of appointments on the county's portion of a citizens' advisory committee to the controversial Ridgelands Study group.

Supervisors this week filled out their five appointments to the 15-member committee with the nominations of Margaret Tracy, Don Vieux, Dagmar Fulton and Stana Hearne.

Tracy, Vieux and Fulton, all with interests in the valley, will join Dublin rancher John Cronin on the board.

Valley supervisor John Murphy picked up extra weight on the committee when fellow supervisor Charles Santana of Hayward appointed Cronin and board chairman Fred Cooper named Fulton.

Murphy nominated Vieux and Oakland supervisor Tom Bates picked Tracy. Hearne was appointed by Joseph Bort of Castro Valley.

Alameda is joining Contra Costa and Santa Clara Counties and the East Bay Regional Parks District, Association of Bay Area Governments and the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in studying some 1,100 acres of ridgelands that run through the three county jurisdictions.

Fulton has been vocal in her opposition to the study, arguing before the board in January that "(we) don't need Contra Costa and Santa Clara (Counties) to tell us what to do."

The director of the Valley First Committee — a fund-raising group involved in the Zone 7 elections that surfaced last month under the tutelage of Hayward publisher Floyd Sparks — said then that "This board (the supervisors) is abdicating its responsibility to the landowners to others."

Tracy has been active in the Preserve Area Ridgelands Committee (PARC), one of the initiators of the study.

Bates said he appointed her because it was an "oversight to leave her off the committee after all the hard work she's done on the Ridgelands Study. Her presence needs to be there."

Vieux, Murphy's appointment, is a 43 - year - old rancher in Fremont with holdings in Sunol and rented pastures in Union City. He is a director of both the Farm Bureau and Cattlemen's Association.

Of his appointment of Stana Hearne, Bort said he would characterize her as an environmentalist, "but she's not an extremist."

Bort fought heavy opposition in January when the supervisors voted to reconsider the commitment to the study.

He came under stern attack that day from Fulton, attorney Joseph Joiner, who has represented local land owner Bill Apperson, local developer Carl Nipper and Rhena Clemens of the Associated Building Industry of Northern California.

The board voted 4-1 to reaffirm its support.

The board last month split on a measure that would have given Murphy three votes and Bort two, cutting off urban representatives Santana, Cooper and Bates.

In a compromise, they reverted to an earlier suggestion of one appointment per supervisor.

But the final nominations effectively give Murphy three appointments while splitting the environmentalists' vote with Bort and Bates.

In voting for the compromise, Bort said he expected Murphy and Santana to appoint "land owners and what you might call developer interests," while he and Bates named environmentalists. Cooper, he said, should appoint "a neutral."

But Cooper said Friday that "Bort's assumption of what I was going to do was wrong. The final decision will be with the policy board, anyway.

Mercer battles tax boost in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — He may have been down 4-1, but Councilman Ken Mercer feels he has not been counted out in his drive to impose no higher tax rate on property owners for the coming fiscal year.

Mercer told The Times that he will continue to lobby other council members in an effort to swing them to his position before the final budget is adopted in August.

The council decided Tuesday to increase taxes five cents from the current $1.8l rate. The jump would be three cents under the eight cent increase which had been recommended by City Manager Bill Edgar.

Mercer said that the five cent increase is supposed to help stem the flow of money from capital improvement funds to the city's general fund — the one that pays salaries and other operating costs. That's all well and good, but the council and staff has not yet come up with a list of which capital improvements would be accomplished under the new policy, said Mercer.

He wants to see a list of those capital improvements, but even at that he won't go for a tax increase. It's more important to hold the line now and have that eight cent increase in the offing for next year, said Mercer.

Under the rules of SB90, the city can increase taxes only eight more cents, he said. It may be needed much more next year or the following year, he said.

By raising the tax rate five cents, the city would be using up all but $42,000 of the amount below the ceiling. By holding the line, some $102,000 would be kept in reserve for the future, he said.

The $40,000 won't help the city much in an emergency, but $102,000 could make a difference, Mercer feels.

"I feel we can cut back enough on the proposed budget and continue one more year of transfers from capital improvements to retain that eight cents for a real emergency. I look at it as money in the bank," said Mercer.

The sale of the Dogwood Park site, bordered by the back of homes along Olivina and Oriole avenues and Meadowlark Street, will be considered by the city council Monday night. The property, bought for $33,000 several years ago at the prompting of neighbors who were to improve the site, remains undeveloped and now is thought to be attracting vandals and juveniles who are apt to set fires.

Brown grass draws concern

PLEASANTON — Mayor Robert Philcox learned why the grass is turning brown at the civic center and Youth Sports Park last week.

Pilcox expressed concern about the two turfed areas and a member of the Field Services Department attending the council's final work session on the preliminary budget filled him in on the problem.

The Youth Sports Park sprinkler system clogged up with dirt and jammed the sprinkler heads. The contractor for the sprinkler system installation is supposed to be called to correct the problem.

Over at the civic center the problem appears to be the spacing of the sprinkler system, though it might also be poor soil, said the field services engineer.

Pleasanton council to tackle gas station rezoning requests

PLEASANTON — The city council has scheduled public hearings for two controversial gas station rezoning requests tomorrow.

At one hearing the council will determine whether an Environmental Impact Report should be done for a 24 dispenser self - service Gas and Save station at the northwest corner of Hopyard Road and Johnson Industrial Drive. The appeal of the City Manager's declaration that an EIR is not needed was filed by attorney Joseph Schwab on behalf of local gasoline dealers.

The gas dealers feel the new station would create a "Gasoline Alley" effect on Hopyard Road and would add to traffic problems at the Johnson - Hopyard intersection.

The other gas station item is Doug Safreno's request to add 11,300 square feet to the Shell Station on First Street and Vineyard Avenue. The planning commission turned down the request last fall and Safreno appealed it to the city council, but it was delayed at his request.

The station was controversial in the city more than 10 years ago when it became the first (and only) commercial zoning granted on the east side of First Street. The planning commissioner still feels that no more commercial zoning, not even an addition to the station, should be allowed on that side of First Street.

The addition to the station would be for service bays. The planning staff said that stiffer competition at the gas pumps provided by the Gas and Save across the street is forcing more emphasis on service at the Shell station.

The council faces a long agenda, including a big list of important items tomorrow. There will be a public hearing on Robert Muller's appeal for a second driveway at 777 Concord St., possible appointment of a new park and recreation commissioner succeeding Ken Mercer, adoption of the 1976-77 preliminary budget (see accompanying story on budget cuts), a request from the city attorney to establish procedures for the Williamson Act, and a change in the city's park dedication ordinance which would permit the city to take park dedication fees for parks anywhere in the city.

The city until now has used subdividers' park dedication fees in the builder's own subdivision, but state law does not prohibit using the money for community parks or other projects and the city will bring its ordinance in conformity to that idea.

The request for Williamson Act procedures was prompted by a request from owners of the Nilson property on Hopyard Road to enter the Williamson Act. The act gives a significant reduction in property assessment to agricultural properties covered by the act. It is the first request for Williamson Act status in the city.

Red and black

Ken Hart issued the following explanation after recent comments about colors Zone 7 candidates use on their campaign signs.

"Let me set you straight on why I picked red and black," Hart said.

"The red is the blood that I and 500,000 other boys have lost fighting in Korea defending Americans who were still in grammar school learning their colors," he said.

"The red is also the blood that I and millions of other people lose every day to the blood suckers that over-tax and overburden the common people like myself," he continued.

Black, Hart said, "is the gloom and sadness I feel when I think of the politicians that are trying to take control of our valley; that take all and give nothing in return."

Hart said his quietness is because "I'm thinking about how I can create the 'Impossible Dream'; a face turned from the clod looking for a better way of life where the Murphys, Raymonds, Millers and Kinneys join hands and think we — we the people — one valley united for the good of us."

Raymond on information

Valerie Raymond, candidate for Alameda County Supervisor, First District, issued a press release discussing the difficulty in obtaining information from the County government.

"My philosophy is that the County should provide a service to those who pay for its operation, namely the taxpayer. When a citizen requests information of a reasonable nature, that information should be available," Raymond said.

She cited the case of minutes of Board of Supervisors' meetings which she said "are currently published in an obscure legal newspaper, the Intercity Express." She said the price for listening to tapes of the meetings is approximately $9 per hour.

"Such requirements effectively discourage those who are interested from finding out what is going on at Board meetings," she said.

Raymond suggested that modern communications methods be explored. "For example, why can't listening terminals be provided where a citizen can here the tape recordings at the library in his own city," she asked. "And couldn't an agenda packet be made available outside the Supervisors' meeting room in Oakland? And why can't meetings be held occasionally outside of Oakland? And why can't we return to having some meetings at night when working people can attend?"

She said that as a public official she would "welcome public scrutiny of my official actions."

Valley smog situation

Experts tell COVA of air quality

The enticing love call of suburbia — "City close, country quiet" — will be a quaint anachronism if air quality standards produce a "regional outlook" and homogeneous, "unit cities," according to a panel of experts addressing the Congress of Valley Agencies' Air Pollution Forum.

But while not all of the 50 civic officials assembled could agree on the cause of air pollution, that "regional outlook" under state and federally imposed guidelines seems to be in our future.

Air pollution — the valley's particular brand of "ozone" or oxidant induced smog — has been having a gay affair with the southeast part of the Bay Basin.

In winter the particulates collect moisture and expand forming that blue haze that hangs over everything.

But in the summer they bake in the photochemical reaction that leaves the valley — and the entire Bay Area — blanketed in a brown cocoon that 15 years ago was passed off flippantly as "smog."

Progress has been made, however, according to Milt Feldstein, deputy air pollution control officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

The valley went over acceptable air quality standards an average 106 days per year in 1964-69, but lowered that figure to an average 60 days per year in the next five years.

Last year the valley recorded 93 days above the acceptable limits.

Federal Environmental Protection Agency laws call for areas not to exceed one day per year — but by 1977. That law may be modified as it is bantered about Congressional committees.

"Ventilation" — strong wind currents — and rains produce widely varying figures in individual years, Feldstein said, pointing to an abnormally low — and rain washed — 1972. Hence the five year average in accumulating statistics.

Even more impressive is the "alert" designation given to days on which air pollution is three times the acceptable standard.

Air pollution control districts issue warnings aimed primarily st sensitive groups (the elderly, the very young and those with respitory ailments) advising them to avoid the outdoors.

During the 1964-69 period, the valley averaged 4.7 "alert days" per year. By the second span, it was down to .8 days each year.

"There has been a significant reduction because of auto exhaust programs and industrial monitoring," said Feldstein.

"We have made progress, but we haven't made it in sufficient amplitude to solve the problems in the Livermore Valley."

EPA representative Fred Leif points to the anomoly in the "Air Quality Maintenance Act."

"Although it's called 'maintenance,' we all know the name of the ball game is 'attainment'" he said.

"Mexico City," added the Association of Bay Area Government's George Hagovik, "has one hell of an air pollution problem."

The topography is similar to the valley, he said, and they have "absolutely no controls" on air pollution sources.

"There's open pit burning, auto emissions, open coal and oil fires ..."

"Tough decisions," he feels, "should be made by elected officials, not bureaucrats."

He cites ABAG and its 44-member Environmental Management Task Force — considered by some to be the environmental power broker of the future — as an example of regional cooperation by elected officials.

"In Texas, the bureaucracy appointed the committee members," he said.

The EMTF will tackle ABAG's "work program," a 400 page, two inch thick, one - year - in - the - making, outline of what projects and problems should be addressed.

"How do you control air pollution in the future?," he asked. "Land use? Planning? Technology? — While holding the society together economically and politically."

The nine Bay Area counties that form ABAG's membership represent a greater population than that of Massachusetts, he said.

But the regional agency is not just "another layer of government," as its critics charge.

"ABAG would like to back down and pass the buck back to local agencies," he admits.

The southeast Bay Basin — the Livermore and Santa Clara valleys — are downwind and get the lion's share of the bay's pollution.

It's been traced from as far away as San Mateo County. "That's why you have to develop a regional outlook," argued the Stanford Research Center's Dr. Dick Thuillier.

While he personally feels most of the valley's pollution is imported, local generation cannot be ignored.

The first air pollution study, done in bucolic 1967, pegged the valley's import/export ration at 50/50, he said. "A very diplomatic report."

Recirculating air currents that occur in basin's like Livermore's simply bring the smog back to its source several hours after emissions. That leads people to believe the 3 p.m. haze was imported through the Dublin Canyon.

But "local growth problems are rather intimately related to air pollution," he cautioned.

"You need a shared responsibility in and out of the valley. A regional outlook. For every Livermore or San Jose, there's a Tracy and Gilroy," he said.

The populace has shown its wrath against the EPA, Leif advised the audience. Some of their more drastic decrees have been met with costly and time consuming litigation.

But if the federal government rejects the local "208 plan" — the working program the EMTF is tackling — there could be retaliation through the denial of sewer and water hook-ups and a general drying up of federal funds destined to underwrite local public works programs.

"But this is not a big scare scene." There are mitigating measures that can be taken if the local group tackles the 208 plan properly: mass transit, carpooling and perhaps density control.

But that enticing chant of 12 or 15 years ago — "City close, country quiet" — that lured away so many urban dwellers with thoughts of a peaceful home 15 to 30 miles away from work, apparently is a best forgotten melody.

Exerciser for baby

The father of invention succeeds

Six years ago, chemist Art Williams made a baby exerciser for his two - month - old son.

Baby Art, Jr. enjoyed the apparatus until he was big enough for one of the conventional bouncer seats. Then the exerciser was lent to friends who had new babies. Finally Williams got it back four years ago for his second child, Chad.

Somewhere along the line, somebody said, "Great idea! Why don't you get it patented?" So, Williams got a patent good for 17 years.

And didn't know where to go from there.

That is, until last weekend when he made it down to Ventura County with his family for the third annual Inventors' Expo.

Williams even invested $75 in a booth for the four days. He displayed his one invention, took a mini - marketing survey (people said they'd buy a good quality exerciser for $19 over a lower quality one for $12) and, most important, talked to dozens of inventors and businessmen about where to go from here.

He's come back full of enthusiasm and ideas. "I talked to an actor who works with the handicapped, Jim Stacy, who said my exerciser could be just the thing for the pediatrics departments of hospitals. So I'm going to contact a few hospitals and see if they're interested.

"Another idea I got was to make up plans for a do - it - yourself exerciser and just market the plans. I also got leads on manufacturers who might be interested in buying the invention outright or in licensing.

"They give you so many different ideas you can hardly handle it."

Williams was the only Valley inventor to attend the expo, which he says was attended by 100,000 hobbyists, business representatives and curious citizens. He'll be sharing his impressions with other inventors Tuesday night when the newly forming Valley chapter of Inventors Workshop International (IWI) meets at 7 p.m. in the clubhouse of the Pleasanton Mobile Home Villa on Vineyard Avenue.

The meeting is open to the public for a 50 - cent fee to cover the cost of coffee and cookies that are served.

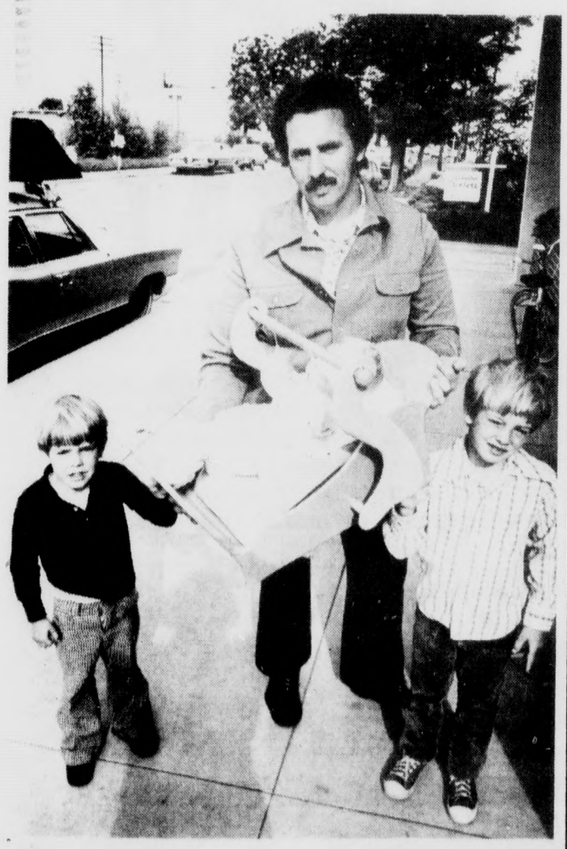
A patent attorney will be the guest speaker at the May 25 meeting. He's expected to explain the procedure for protecting clever ideas as well as finished inventions or models.

The workshop is said to benefit the ordinary creative thinker as well as the mechanic or scientist who develops a sophisticated new item. "Everybody gets good ideas at one time or another," explains Williams.

"But 99 per cent of the time, they don't do anything about them. Getting a patent seems too complicated. Selling the invention seems impossible.

"Learning more about it at a low - key meeting like the one Tuesday night is just right for a guy like myself."

— by Pat Kennedy



Art Williams, 6, and Chad, 4, were the reasons for the baby exerciser invented by father Art Williams Sr.; now, he's planning to market the patented design.

When a city needs heart

Livermore city council has before it a "Central Area Development Plan" that many see as offering "an exciting future for our city."

Dublin is hailed as "the most profitable commercial area of any unincorporated community in Alameda County."

Pleasanton appears to have a real chance at "preserving the Old Town charm" even while that city would encourage "new vitality" for the century - old core area.

And so, it would appear, each of the Valley's three urban areas is growing outward from a healthy core. But there are signs that we might be paying a terrible price for today's tax - producing expediency.

Those of us familiar with Hayward's story, who have seen Castro Valley's once - pretty boulevard lit up with signalized monotony, and who today ask "What ever happened to downtown San Jose?" might also start asking questions about our own community.

By any measure, Dublin has a "commercial base" that is far beyond the needs of the 15,000 residents of that village, or even the 25,000 who populate that total area. Dublinites, to their credit, are now beginning to ask questions about this unlimited commercial spread, to wonder who really profits, and to perhaps defend their once "country quiet" community from becoming the Valley's wayside service station.

It all depends on what you expect from your community, and its commercial services. Pleasanton always had dreams of "recapturing the charming heritage" of its core area. And in this was seen new commercial vitality with "a Main Street Mall" and boutiques and old - world restaurants. But just when that concept seems to have a chance, along comes a city council plan for "signal lights at every intersection" in that same hub. How's that for "preserving Old World charm"?

Dublin and San Ramon are struggling to get a firm fix on their own identity, but it will only come when those homeowners start looking from within, and not as one great commercial magnate catering to a thousand Valley needs.

Livermore has the best opportunity of all. Its core area boasts wide, deep streets; its commerce is centralized and well removed from any freeway distraction; its downtown potential seems limitless, But here too, there must be limits, and reason, if Livermore is to avoid the "core area congestion" that could kill off that commercial goose, just as it has in so many other large urban centers.

The answer would seem to be "balance" ... having the courage to develop what we need, while retaining the best of what we already have.

Best of both worlds

Zone 7 — Futch, Kinney, Harris

The Valley's electorate should be impressed with the array of talent offered for those three vacancies on the Zone 7 Water Board. The only question now is how that talent will be used, and with what kind of results for the community?

Confronted with four former mayors, a past president of the VCSD board of directors and an attorney, we might even wonder why such a high - powered panel aspires to an ordinary utility board. "And we can hope their meetings don't turn into a high - level debating society," as one observer noted.

The answer, we believe, is in mixing 'em up. Draw a little from here, a little from there. Don't let any one "bloc" get the idea they have our mandate to plunge off in this or that direction.

That is the danger we see in a Marguth - Kinney - Schweser bloc; of from a Futch - Miller bloc which could then get locked into the Pearson - Ryon bloc and talk us to death.

Personally we have always liked Archer Futch because he comes across as a man of integrity, trying to reach honest decisions. He is "an environmentalist" in the broadest and most acceptable sense. Separated from the omnipresence of Don Miller, we believe Archer Futch might yet emerge as one of this Valley's true leaders.

Ed Kinney comes off of four years of service on the Pleasanton city council, and more importantly from a wide variety of regional posts which could provide a vital link in any program to resolve the Valley's complicated water needs. In the heady Zone 7 atmosphere, Kinney's good - will personality could be a refreshing change.

Dave Harris has had the problem of "trying to steer a middle course" between two opposing philosphies on that board. For this, he has gained the love of neither side. If he can preserve his neutrality, and his common sense, Harris would be even more productive in the next four year years than he was in that first Zone 7 term.

Futch, Kinney and Harris. Nobody's "ticket" that's for sure. But when added to Concannon, Lydiksen, Pearson and Ryon it promises the kind of mix that could keep all seven of them honest, and on their toes. The voters can't ask for much more than that.

Historical sites

If the recent discussion about the move of the Presbyterian Church to a new site has done nothing else, it has focused attention on one important oversight. The city council authorized a historical overlay district committee in 1973, but it has not filled that committee's membership.

The five committee members would designate certain buildings as having historical value. If they were threatened with demolition, the city council could halt the scheduled demolition for a reasonable period of time while trying to find funds to buy the site. If the city could not raise the funds, the property owner could demolish the building.

The Presbyterian Church controversy is still around. As of this writing it's expected someone will appeal to the city council about the planning commission approval of the move. Therefore this is not a good time to name the committee because partisans of both sides would apply for membership thinking it might have some effect on their issue.

But after the church issue is gone from the civic scene, the city council should fill the committee. It would be one positive result from a civic issue which unfortunately has ruffled some tempers around town.

Letters to the Times

Valley College

Editor, The Times:

Your recent editorial supporting a valleywide community of interest was well stated. For over ten years I have shared these same thoughts, and have worked with other citizens and elected officials to try to make it happen. But to little or no avail. I have always found it baffling to hear political leaders in this valley agree with the concept while refusing to take the lead in opening the debate on this matter.

I believe the time is rapidly passing when steps can be taken to sensibly plan and develop this valley for all. As you said, one city may not be the answer. Maybe we can work to change state laws so that local government can be more effective and more responsive. But we'll never know unless our leaders have the courage to face this question.

My candidacy for a seat on the Zone 7 Board is based in part upon my belief that the Board, as the only valleywide elected body, can serve as a catalyst in bringing attention to bear on this singularly important issue. People are beginning to speak out on this issue. They, as well as your newspaper, are taking a risk when such ideas are put forth. But without risk and without the vision to dream of what might be, we will be forever locked into the status quo.

The time to begin the debate, to look to the future with hope and then to act is not next year or the next decade — it is now. This valley needs journalists, citizens and elected leaders who have the courage to face this issue and plan together for the future of our valley.

Mary's grotto

Editor, The Times:

May 12 will long be remembered as a day of importance to all in Pleasanton. The long awaited grotto at Saint Augustines Parish grounds was officially dedicated.

This beautiful grotto in Honor of Mary Immaculate Mother of God and Patroness of the United States was officially blessed by His Excellency Bishop Floyd L. Begin.

The Blessed Mother's statue was imported from Italy. It is life size and is an excellent piece of art work. I am so happy and well pleased with it, and you will be too.

This shrine or grotto is a place of Holiness and importance to God and also to all the people of Pleasanton and to those people who will come from far and near to be closer to our Mother in prayer and devotion.

All marched back into the church where Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament took place.

I wish to thank all sincerely in my humble way all those who were involved in helping in anyway to erect this beautiful grotto in Honor of Mary the Mother of God.

May Our Blessed Lady keep us always in Her care.

Better water

Editor, The Times:

Voters in Dublin and Pleasanton should fill a clean glass with water before going to the polls on June 8. Look at it, smell it, taste it. Then look at your water bills. Livermore voters can do this too. Compare them with your bills of the last two years. This will give you more insight about the upcoming Zone 7 election than all the current newspaper publicity.

In November 1972, Valley voters approved the Project 2 bond measure. The official ballot argument for Project 2 promised "an abundant supply of softer water for the homeowner at no additional cost to the taxpayer." Tom Schweser, candidate for Zone 7, signed that ballot argument. Gib Marguth, candidate for Zone 7, asserts that his name was also on Project 2. Marguth and Schweser were chairmen of Citizens for Better Water, the committee that backed Project 2.

Marguth now claims that Citizens for Better Water never said that water rates would not go up to pay for Project 2; they merely said that it would not increase costs "to the taxpayer."

Since virtually every' voter in this Valley pays property taxes and a water bill, the claim of "no additional cost to the taxpayer" was in itself a deliberately misleading statement.

But that's not all. On November 5 & 6, 1972, Citizens for Better Water ... promised Project 2 "won't cost you a cent in tax money or in increased water rates." That ad directly contradicts Marguth's current claims. How can we believe Marguth's and Schweser's preelection statements now ...

By the way, Marguth's and Schweser's committee spent $4600 in favor of Project 2. All but a minute fraction of that money came from developers, real estate interests, construction interests, and a pipe manufacturer. Voters should question whether these groups were seeking better water for the public, or more water for themselves.

Good report

Editor, The Times:

Thank you very much for the very excellent article of my views on Zone 7 dated May 13, 1976. It faithfully stated my views in the interview earlier in that week, and it discreetly and tastefully handled matters which we discussed in an off-the-record basis. David W. Harris round the town

It may come as a surprise for some of you to learn that Alaska and Hawaii are the two most expensive places in this nation in which to live.

I know it surprised me. I had been thoroughly convinced that anywhere within 35 miles of our house was the nation's Cost of Living leader.

That is pretty much the range of our spending. It is, however, well out of the range of our budgeting. The two are not related.

"How come we're way over budget with our spending again this month?" I ask.

"What's that got to do with it?" she answers. Her ability to cut through my rhetoric is positively amazing.

This month we have been shelling it out as though the nation was about to go off the dollar standard. First there was that little matter of settling up with Uncle IRS. "I thought the accountant assured us we were already overpaid from last time," I insisted. "He did, but now he's used that overpayment to apply to the first quarter of next year's taxes," is the answer.

One does not argue with Uncle IRS, with the accountant, or with the lady of the house. All are unappealable.

Then we laid out some heavy sugar for the tree. The big elm. In front of the house. Been there a hundred years or more. Been doing just fine all that time.

"We had better get that elm tree pruned this year if we want to save it," she announces. In this she is counselled by no less an authority than the University of California Ag Extension Service, and by the Davey Tree Sur. I figure both have an axe to grind, so to speak.

They get their info from the state's official Plant Pathologist. I never knew trees had pathologists. Sounds expensive. I am beginning to find out who pays for it.

"Pruning and spraying is the only hope of staving off Dutch Elm Disease," these experts advise. Even then there are no guarantees Just bills. So we pay, and pray. What's another $360 in the merry month of May?

Anchorage is the worst. Even 13.3 percent more expensive than Honolulu. I think it is because tree pruning is much more costly when they must first saw through all that ice.

In Hawaii the problem is beautiful girls in grass skirts. They go sashaying by just as the Davey Tree men are trying to do their thing with your Dutch Elm. Raises hell with their productive processes.

"What is this budget item here marked 'CKOD' and underlined in red, to the tune of $100," I ask, foolishly.

"That's for 'College Kid's Overdraft'," she advises me. "I always keep a hundred standing by in case she's overdrawn, which she usually is." I make a mental note to discuss "Budgeting, Grades and Loving Father" when next I encounter the college prodigal.

San Francisco Bay Area is rated a lowly fifth in the Cost of Living All Stars. Los Angeles is way down at the 14th level. Bakersfield scrapes the Pacific Coast's bottom with a 35th rating.

"If ever I plant another elm tree, I shall do so in Bakersfield," I announce, smartly.

"What on earth are you talking about?" she says, scribbling out another check.

"What bill, may I ask, are you paying now? There seem to be an awful lot of zeroes on that dollar line."

"It's for our tickets to England," she says "I figured I had better pay that one first, while there's still some money left to cover." Good thinking.

We are timing our overseas venture to the value of the English pound. When I first had ideas about visiting the root of the family tree, the pound was going for something like four dollars American. Now the pound is at $1.85, and slipping.

"At this rate, you must be able to tool around London for very little bread," I suggest to Tom George, who recently returned from the old sod. "Not so," says Tom, "prices in London are climbing faster than the pound is dropping. Cost us a bundle just to spend two days in Edinburgh."

I have no idea what a lifelong Portuguese like Tom George was doing in a place like Edinburgh. Come to think of it, why are the lady and I laying out pounds and pounds for a Scottish side trip, when neither of us has plaid anywhere in our origins?

"I certainly wouldn't go all that way and not see Scotland!" she asserts.

"So then maybe we'll skip Ireland," I suggest, innocently.

"Not on your life," she says with her O'Shea temper. And so endeth another budget discussion in our house. Sometimes I wonder why I even bother.

CALIFORNIA JUSTICE

Lax legislature

(Second of a three part "reader commentary.")
by George Nicholson

"A dispassionate observer of legislative performance can only feel dismay and foreboding. Our National Congress and most state legislatures are in miserable condition — manipulated by lobbyists, hamstrung by archaic seniority rules and debilitated by internal arrangements which invest autocratically governed committees with virtual veto powers."

So wrote Justice Leonard Friedman of the California Court of Appeal in 1972. His remarks have largely fallen on deaf ears.

Justice Friedman's concerns have never been more vividly appropriate than when applied to the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee of the California Legislature.

For years, the Committee has been a burial ground for criminal justice legislation passed, in most cases unanimously, by the California Senate. In the past three years, the committee has performed last rites for roughly 60 such bills.

The Committee has long been used as a means of insulating Democratic Assemblymen from the necessity of voting on criminal justice reform bills. In fact, last year, when mandatory sentencing bills eventually made their way to the Assembly floor for a vote, one Alameda County Assemblyman complained the Committee had failed in its task of providing that insulation.

The need for such protection has been perceived by some Assembly Democrats as preventing their Republican opponents from making political hay of negative criminal justice reform votes by individual Democrats.

Republicans have not distinguished themselves during the reign of power by the Committee. In fact, they have often been unwitting helpers. There are signs this may be changing.

The arrogance displayed by the Committee, particularly by its chairman, Alan Sieroty, D-West Los Angeles, has provoked a growing storm of criticism by Democrats and Republicans alike.

One Southern California Senator, A Democrat, has said no other committee in the Legislature is so autocratic and unresponsive to the needs of society for criminal justice reform.

One specific example will illustrate the Committee's unresponsiveness to the nature, significance and extent of the seething storm of violence that ravages our society. In August of 1975, it received testimony from several feeble, elderly victims of unspeakable horrors inflicted on them by youthful San Francisco and Oakland hoodlums. These senior citizens and others urged the Committee to allow the Assembly at large to vote on a criminal justice reform bill which had passed the Senate by 36-0. No one testified in opposition to the bill; nevertheless, three of six committeemen voted against, and thereby killed it. By this vote, 74 other Assemblymen were prevented from voting the will of their constituents.

Some recent statistics on violence will demonstrate the hazards of allowing this legislative bottleneck to continue. The decade ending in 1970 showed the greatest sustained rise in reported major violent crime since official FBI figures were first published in 1933. Whereas riots and other civil disorders slacked off by the end of the sixtiesx reported serious personal violence continued to rise into the seventies. From 1963 through 1972, the reported increase in offense rates in cities with populations of 250,000 or more have been up 149 percent in criminal homicide, 101 per cent in aggravated assault, 171 per cent in forcible rape, and 263 per cent in robbery.

With violence so rampant, and with the innocent citizenry more and more becoming prisoners in their own homes and businesses, it is time for change.

Justice Friedman made an appeal for that change 4 years ago when he said, "The nation surely needs a renaissance of executive and legislative leadership."

Former Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski made a similar appeal to the legal fraternity in 1968. Jaworski then called for "a bold bench and a bold bar" to play a vital role in a "renaissance of law and order."

Such a renaissance can only begin with elimination of the legislative bottleneck created by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee. This should be top priority for all of us. We must press all candidates for the Senate and Assembly, including incumbents, to join us in that goal. By lifting this Committee's stranglehold on criminal justice reform, we can begin to move toward a restoration of public justice.

LIFE INSURANCE

NEW YORK (AP) — Two out of every three workers in the United States are protected by group life insurance, says the Institute of Life Insurance.

It says these plans provided an estimated $930 billion of protection at the start of 1976.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a definite need to be active today. You'll be better at things where you can be in the driver's seat.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Benefits from a confidential situation are likely today. By keeping a closed mouth, you may reap even greater rewards than the other party.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It will be extremely difficult for those around you to be down in the mouth today. Your humor is contagious.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) While you have definite goals today, your approach should be less than obvious. Guide others, rather than push them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) When confronted by challenge today, fall back on your faith. This will make you able to overcome any opposition.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) People in high places look favorably on you today. Therefore, your best shot is to make your needs known. They'll help if there is a way open.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Any agreement you enter into today has a good chance for success, if you exercise normal good judgment in selecting a partner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is not likely to be a day of rest for you. Your time will be industriously used, since you have a specific reward in mind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Make the rounds today. You are in a gala mood and have too much bubble for only one party.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) You may start out to putter around the house today, but you could find that you've taken on a major project.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're more skilled in mental pursuits today than in things of a physical nature. Use brain rathern than brawn and you'll come out ahead.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Achievement for others is far more satisfying for you today than acting in your own interests. You can get things for them they can't acquire themselves.

Letters to the Times

Valley first

Editor, The Times:

Glad to see the Valley First Committee ads in your paper — a cross section of Valley citizens cooperating. Their goal is a continuing effort to study issues and candidates and endorse what and who is best for all citizens — not just a few noisy individuals.

Reckless, irresponsible actions have halted growth and have set us on the path to self - destruction. Wise men throughout the ages have learned We Cannot Stand Still ....

Those who whine about powerful businesses making a fair return for the money and work they have invested totally ignore the benefits of industry and shopping centers in the Valley ....

Valley First Committee "hits home" on vital issues:

Control what goes on in our Valley. Fail to accept our responsibilities, and Big Brother government takes over;

Lack of plans for sensible growth in homes and industry will lay us wide open to a "Geldertown" and higher taxes;

Mature and wise people elected to Zone 7 will plan a healthy future, including water, treatment and disposal;

We could learn from other localities who are really encouraging industry to locate in their areas — thereby developing a healthier tax structure.

Testing nuclear

Editor, The Times:

The opposition to Proposition 15, the Nuclear Safeguards Initiative, has chosen a slogan: Nuclear Energy is Safe, Clean and Economical.

Nuclear reactors can be considered safe if one overlooks the fact that some very important safety features have never been successfully tested. Furthermore most nuclear reactors have been shut down from time to time because of structural flaws.

Nuclear reactors can be considered clean if one thinks pollution must be visible. The pollution created by nuclear reactors is radiation emitted by waste produced by the nuclear reactors. To this day there is no safe method of storing this radioactive waste.

Nuclear reactors are economical if one disregards the billions of dollars of the taxpayer's money which has been used to subsidize the development of nuclear reactors and the mining and refinement of nuclear fuel.

It is the purpose of Proposition 15 to guarantee that nuclear reactors are truly safe and clean so that in the future we do not regret using this form of energy.

Fine coverage

Editor, The Times:

We are greatly appreciative of your fine coverage of the Amador Valley Adult School program for the school year 1975-1976. To inform the adult community of our offerings is sometimes difficult. The Times was a great help to us and more importantly, contributed a fine service to our community.

Mr. Al Fischer deserves special commendation. He was most helpful to us throughout the year. Without his cooperation, we could not have accomplished what we did.

Church viewed

Editor, The Times:

After the recent rash of articles, letters, and editorials regarding the future of the Pleasanton Presbyterian Community Church building, I feel moved to share a few thoughts on the matter.

Lisa Pruett is right about the church members' love for the 100 year old building. That love made it impossible for the congregation to abandon it and move to the hill into a new, larger facility. Yet, the love the members have for each other and an open Christian Community means not turning people away who wish to join the Community. This is happening right now because classrooms are just too small and there are too few seats in the sanctuary.

When the membership explored expanding facilities on the present site they were told off-street parking would be required by the City if major changes were made. This would mean purchasing surrounding homes and turning the land into parking lots — an idea abhorrant to those interested in preservation of the neighborhood and economically unfeasable for the church community.

So what was left for a growing and loving Community? Move the beautiful and loved buildings to a larger site! A risky venture for a venerable old structure, perhaps, but then Christians are called by Christ to take risks in His name.

Then came all this talk of the heritage of the building on this particular site and the threat its loss poses to the land values in an area of predominantly "heritage" homes. Well, I have some strong emotions about this, particulary in this Bicentennial year, as do most of us.

Then I spent a Sunday afternoon touring Livermore's heritage homes and was struck by several things. One was that no house was just as it was 75 or 100 years ago: All had been plumbed and wired, added to or modified. The second discovery has was how many of Livermore's houses had been moved from their original sites!

And the third discovery was that it wasn't the condition of the homes that was as important to the hundreds on that tour as was the History of each home and the fact that Owners Had Cared Enough To Combine The Past With Present Needs and Technology. Now, isn't that what the church is trying to do?

Let us keep some sense of balance in our rush to embrace the past and try to remember that buildings are only created to meet human needs. Otherwise, we will become slaves to outmoded buildings — a practice not a part of our heritage.

If this sounds as if I have no regard for old town homes, you are wrong. My husband and I are a young couple who are renovating our second Pleasanton old town home. We have a view of the church steeple from our breakfast nook window and can walk to the church to which I have belonged for 17 years. I will miss both of these pleasures when the church buildings are moved, but I will gain friends among the new members for whom there will be room on the hill.

Now, for the vacant lot left behind, how about a heritage - minded investor buying the property and moving in a lovely old home or two that fit the character of the neighborhood.

For signals

Copy of a letter to —
Mayor Robert Philcox:

The beauty of Pleasanton lies in her colorful history, in the green and gold of the hills that surround her, in the towering majesty of the trees within her, and in the hearts of the people who live within her.

This true natural beauty can turn to ugliness in it's worst form by watching senior citizens try to hurry and dodge so that they can cross Main Street without being struck by a car, in watching young people run heedlessly across in order to beat the oncoming car, in the obscenities and sometimes foolish and violent actions of drivers who have become irritated by waiting just a little too long to turn onto Main Street, in watching someone being dangerously "cut off" by another vehicle just so it can turn onto Main Street.

As a citizen of many years I am concerned with the situation on Ray and Main. Would traffic signals really spoil the natural beauty of Pleasanton, or would they, possibly, add to it by letting everyone relax and truly enjoy walking and driving through their city in safety. It is my opinion that the interest of Main Street merchants and the City of Pleasanton would be far better served by placing traffic signals at Ray and and Main.

I know that I, as a mother and a driver would feel far safer if I thought that my city's government considered banding a little and perhaps, in so doing save someone's life — maybe even my own.

Main St. signals

Copy of a letter to —
Mayor Robert Philcox

George and I were very happy to read in the Sunday May 16th edition of The Times that Main Street might get a couple of signal lights. It's about time.

Speaking as a merchant, at 722 Main Street, we have hoped for signal lights for a long time.

We know our business would be much better, if it wasn't so dangerous to drive on Main Street. I have been told by former customers, they will not fight the traffic to bring us their business. They all agree we need signal lights.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire thinks maybe one light at St. Mary's Street and Main is needed. Well, Mrs. LeClaire, we need three, but two signal lights would be great.

As for preserving the heritage of Pleasanton, what for? There will be nothing to preserve, if City Council allows all kinds of shopping centers to be built around Pleasanton.

Councilman William Herlihy is afraid signal lights on Main Street will turn it to a plastic area. Better that than a dead Main Street.

As for loving Pleasanton and wanting to preserve it, I don't think that Mr. Herlihy or Mrs. LeClaire care more than George and I.

... if you want Main Street to survive and not taken over by the surrounding shopping centers, we ask the council members to vote in favor of signal lights for Main Street.

Library needs aides for shut-ins

LIVERMORE — Volunteers are needed for the Livermore Library's Shut-In Service which provides book delivery to individuals in their homes and persons in convalescent hospitals and nursing homes.

The service is headed by Peggy Carter who selects the books to be delivered and also talks on books at homes and hospitals.

Anyone interested in helping with the service should call Ms. Carter at the library, 447-2376.

Those who participate in the volunteer service include Mary Baroody, Betty Jane Burns, Jan Fortner, Madeline Moore, Helen Ross, Virginia Street, and Edna Wehrsdorfer. The women recently were honored for their service at a luncheon hosted by library board members Christine Sherman and Kay Honodel and staff members Donald Nolte and Ms. Carter.

Can The Leopard Change Its Spots?

The recent Livermore leadership image is one of anti-business, anti-growth, anti-jobs, anti-youth and anti-senior citizen. This leadership may have been OK for a young town anxious to escape from its responsibilities to its citizens and isolate itself from the rest of the area. This type of leadership is not of the quality required to run ZONE 7 where the whole valley future is at stake.

Some of the ZONE 7 candidates created this image. Like the spots on the leopard, they will not change.

Walden soars 6-7 for 2nd

Many high school track athletes would have trouble withstanding the pressure of meeting a national track leader but Granada High School's John Walden is not an average prep competitor.

The Matador high jumper leaped 6-7 (a personal best by 2¾ inches) to finish second to John Lane of American of Fremont yesterday in the North Coast Section 4-A finals at El Cerrito High School.

Lane won the event with a 6-8 leap but has done 7-0 this season to lead the nation's preps.

"I don't know why I jumped that well today," the soft-spoken Matador senior said. "The high jump pit here isn't really that good but I adapted to it all right."

Matador field event coach Terry Doe praised Walden's effort.

"He's one of the hardest working guys I've ever had," Doe said. "A real hard worker."

Walden wasn't the only East Bay Athletic League competitor. Chuck Gangnuss of Dublin continued his brillant hurdling with two victories and Diana Stohr of Granada's girls' team won the 880 and 440 and anchored the Matador's two relays squads to second place finishes. Gangnuss won the 120-yard high hurdles in a personal best of 14.2 then came back to take the 330-yard lows in 38.5, overtaking Will Paterson of DeAnza on the straightaway. Paterson was timed in 39.1 Jim Boulware of Dublin was sixth in 40.0.

Berkeley won the varsity title with 36 points to 33 for Pittsburg. Dublin had 19 for fourth behind Washington with 26.

In girls competition Berkeley won with 54 points to 40 for Granada. El Cerrito won the frosh-soph competition with 53 points.

Stohr won the 440 in 58.0 after breezing to an 880 victory in 2:18.8.

"I just felt really tired today," the petite Matador senior said after the 440.

Diana was indeed tired. She fell to the ground after the 880 and had to be assisted off the field. Still, she came back to win the 440 in easy style, 2.2 seconds ahead of Lisa Valenzuela of Washington of Fremont.

Sheri Williams of Livermore finished second to Stohr in the 880 with a 2:22.2 time and was second in the mile in 5:20.1. Karen Salisbery of Northgate of Walnut Creek took first in a blazing 5:19.2.

What made Williams's feat all the more outstanding was the fact this is her first year of track.

Paul Swenson of San Ramon came through with another creditable effort in the varsity 880, finishing second in 1:57.9.

Swenson was fifth after the first 440 but poured on the juice at the last turn to almost catch winner Tom Smith of Mission San Jose. Smith was timed in 1:57.7.

"I was running bascially to qualify today," the Wolf runner said. "I think I can get my time down to 1:55 at the section qualifying meet next week. I'll just do a lot of speed work this week."

Dan Harvey of Dublin finished a strong second to Kevin Searls of College Park in the varsity two-mile.

The Gael senior posted a 9:30.9 clocking for a personal best. Searls was timed in 9:29.7.

Searls grabbed the lead after a couple of laps and held it for the remainder of the race. The Falcon senior withstood a strong challenge from Harvey at the beginning of the last lap and finished strong. Searls's last lap was timed in 65 seconds.

Boyd Tarin of Livermore was fourth in the two-mile with a 9:38.7 clocking. He ran 9.22 eariler in the year.

Livermore also showed its strength in the frosh-soph two-mile, finishing 1-2.

Steve Loyd was first for the Cowboys in 9:51.4 and Rob Wentworth grabbed the runner-up spot with a 9:56.3 clocking.

Bret McGinnis of Amador took first in the frosh-soph pole vault with a 12-3 mark. John Draper of Livermore was third with a 12-0 vault.

Jim Beigel of the Dons was tentatively placed second in the frosh-soph high hurdles. He ran a 9.2 as did winner Eric Roundtree of El Cerrito. Final placings will be determined by films.

The top six finishers in varsity and girls competition in each event advance to the Meet of Champions next week at the University of California. The top four competitors from each event advance to the state meet the following week at Berkeley. The junior varsity teams completed their season at El Cerrito.

Goodman's shutout gives Stangs title

Gregg Goodman's one-hit shutout gave Monte Vista High School a 6-0 win over California and the East Bay Athletic League championship Friday afternoon in Danville.

The game was a replay of an early-season 2-2 tie between the schools that had clouded the pennant picture. Amador Valley, one-half game back for weeks, was finally eliminated by yesterday's MV win.

Goodman struck out 14 while walking just three in recording the most important win of what has been a stellar season for him.

Perhaps the highest compliment of Goodman's laborious 118-pitch gem was made by Cal co-coach Bob Benatar.

When asked whether a crippling second-inning loss of cool by the Grizzlies had been a decisive factor in the game, Benatar said, "No, we'd have never hit the kid (Goodman), anyway."

Despite pitching in both of the Mustangs last two regularly scheduled games, Goodman was well rested for Friday's decisive make-up contest. He threw only four innings a week before and came back to toss just 86 pitches Tuesday against rival San Ramon.

Monte Vista coach George Cockerton and his associate, Richard Jones, were both edgy going into the game, however.

"We didn't practice Wednesday," Cockerton revealed. "And, when we came back Thursday, there was a real letdown."

Jones agreed, saying, "There was too much uncertainty with the possibility of a play-off Saturday."

But both were certain in their appraisal of MV's first champions in a team sport.

"The kids really deserved it," Cockerton said. "Their attitude was super." Jones pointed out, "It's not often tha you go through an entire season without a disciplinary problem."

Monte Vista broke the game open quite by accident in the top of the second inning (the Mustangs batted first since, although the game was played at Monte Vista, it was listed on vagabond Cal's schedule as a home game).

Chris Hadsell drew a one out walk and stole second when Grizzly catcher Roger Hurlow's throw sailed into center field. Mike Mattson followed with a single on the edge of the dirt at short, sending Hadsell to third.

With Brad Miller up, Mattson strayed too far from the bag at first and was trapped in a rundown. But again, a bad throw hurt Cal as Hadsell broke for the plate and shortstop Bret Cary threw high, allowing the MV catcher to score and putting Mattson at third.

The Grizzlies throwing problems were not over yet. Walt Finn dumped a squeeze bunt in front of the plate and Chuck Cary came off the mound to cut down Mattson at the plate. But both Miller and Finn scored moments later when Hurlow attempted to catch Brad going back to second by throwing to centerfielder Tyler Laurie, sneaking up behind the bag.

Hurlow's throw again went into center, and this time, no one was there to retrieve it, thus the runners circled the bases uncontested.

Cal starter Chuck Cary went just five innings, giving up six hits and four walks while striking out five, before departing for center field, the victim of poor defensive support.

Amador awaits section decision

Having fallen a game short of the East Bay Athletic League championship, Amador Valley High School must await today's vote of the North Coast Section baseball representatives to discover whether they will join Monte Vista in the section tournament which begins Thursday.

The Dons, who will go to the Shasta tournament in Redding should the NCS at-large berth fail to materialize, have, according to coach Don Bush, "a fairly good chance," in the balloting.

Amador is 14-6 and was ranked 11th in the last East Bay Prep Writers baseball poll. Strong competition for the four at-large berths could come from, among others, a pair of Diablo Valley Athletic League schools; Mt. Diablo (18-6) and Clayton Valley (16-7), both in the Top 15 last week.

Bob Benatar of California, the EBAL's representative to the North Coast proceedings, was encouraging when asked about Amador's chances to make this week's championship field.

"I'm new to this, so I really wouldn't want to say before the meeting," he said when asked which non-champion schools he believes are in line for the at-large spots. "But, certainly, from our league, Amador would have to be one."

The Grizzlies, meanwhile, are apparently through for the season. After losing to Monte Vista yesterday in a replay of their April tie, the Grizzlies dropped behind Livermore in the final standings.

Thus, should Amador be accepted to the NCS tourney, the Cowboys would fulfill the EBAL's commitment in Redding.

AV streak finally ends: Trojans, 5-1

LAFAYETTE — A four-run Del Valle High School rally in the top of the seventh inning ended Amador Valley's three-year unbeaten streak and, almost incidentally, gave the Trojans the championship of the Fourth Annual Acalanes Invitational Softball Tournament, 5-1, here yesterday.

Since organizing a softball team, Amador had compiled a 32-0-1 streak, including a 17-10 win over the same Del Valle team ten days ago in Pleasanton.

Fatigue was perhaps the biggest factor in the Dons downfall. Friday's scheduled 8 p.m. tilt got underway late and didn't end till the early minutes of Saturday.

"Playing until midnight had a lot to do with it," agreed AV coach Vivian Straight, whose team had the tying run at the plate before the final out yesterday.

Deanna Marengo, the Dons sophomore right-hander, had to be feeling the effects of 21 innings pitched in three days. The hard-throwing windmiller fashioned a one-hit shutout Thursday against Holy Names and got the win Friday over Pinole Valley.

But by the seventh yesterday she had thrown 129 pitches in the game and thus permitted three hits and as many walks during the Trojans sudden rally. In the vernacular of the traditional benevolent winning coach, however, Marengo had nothing to be ashamed of as she three times put a stop to Del Valle rallies with a pair of Trojan runners in scoring position.

The Dons held the lead briefly, scoring their lone run in the second inning.

Carolyn Fleischer led off and doubled off the centerfield fence, going to third when the next batter, Kris Brittain moved her over with a grounder back to Del Valle pitcher Kathy Tronvig.

An out later, AV catcher Jamie Watson pulled a stand-up double over the head of Trojan left fielder Patty Berzel, scoring Fleischer. Watson became one of only three Dons to reach third against Tronvig's four-hit pitching when DV catcher Jeri Nuzum allowed a passed ball.

The Dons only other threats came in the fourth and seventh innings.

In the fourth, a mild two-out rally put runners on first and second when Brittain walked and Cindy Aafedt singled. In the last-chance seventh, AV loaded the bases on Aafedt's second single and walks to Sheryl Withoft and lefty Jean Borton but, again, could not score.

In Friday's semi-final, Marengo whiffed seven batters as the Dons routed Pinole Valley, 14-4.

It was Amador which benefitted from base-on-balls in that one as losing pitcher Lorraine Loggins passed 17, accounting for seven Don runs.

Pinole enjoyed a short-lived lead when a walk and a bases-loaded single gave the Spartans two first-inning runs.

But Amador immediately retaliated with three of its own to go ahead to stay after the first frame.

Lead-off batter Debbie Oxsen singled and stole second and third, scoring on a grounder by Fleischer while Marengo and Brittain were eventually walked in.

Fleischer completed the Don fireworks with a three-run triple in the last of the sixth as the rest of Amador's runs were walked in.

Oakland beaten

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Spencer hit a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning and Bucky Dent drilled three hits and rove in two runs Saturday, leading the Chicago White Sox to a 7-2 victory over Oakland which extended the A's losing streak to six games.

Jesse Jefferson worked seven innings and picked up his first victory by allowing five hits as the White Sox posted their fifth consecutive triumph. The Sox wrapped up the decision game with a four-run uprising in the seventh inning.

Spencer's second homer of the year and first since opening day broke a 2-2 tie and came off starter and loser Mike Norris, 0-2.

The A's took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on a single by Bert Campaneris and Phil Garner's triple. Chicago tied it in the third on a double by Ralph Garr and a triple by Dent.

Oakland went ahead again in the fourth on a single by Don Baylor, a balk, a sacrifice bunt and Billy Williams' sacrifice fly. The White Sox tied it in the fifth on a double by Pat Kelly and a single by Dent.

The White Sox scored all four of their seventh-inning runs after two were out with Dent contributing a single and Spencer a run-scoring double.

The six-game losing streak is the longest for the A's since August of 1970 and left them in fifth place, two games behind the surging White Sox and eight in back of first-place Kansas City.

Dent, who had four hits Friday night and is 7-for-8 in the last two games, hiked his average to .357. He triggered the clinching rally in the seventh with a two-out single.

Jorge Orta was hit by a Jim Todd pitch and Rich Coggins singled home a run before Spencer doubled another across. Chet Lemon then hit a grounder which first baseman Baylor fumbled for an error as two more runs scored.

After the A's took a 2-1 lead in the fourth, Jefferson faced the minimum of nine batters in the next three innings. He gave up a single to Joe Rudi in the sixth but Rudi was erased in a double play.

Dave Hamilton hurled the last two innings for Chicago and gave up one hit and one walk but was aided by the White Sox' second double play of the game in the eighth.

Rudi and Garner each had two of Oakland's six hits while Spencer, Garr and Kelly had two hits apiece in addition to the three by Dent in Chicago's 11-hit attack.

Local boxers lose in trials

Rick Garcia and Rod Washburn of the Livermore Boxing Club saw their chances of gaining berths on the United States Olympics boxing team virtually disappear as they both lost heartbreaking decisions in the Western Regional trials Thursday and Friday nights in Carson City, Nevada.

Garcia, who won the Golden Gloves championship in the 178-pound division last March, fell in the semi - finals Friday night by a decision.

Washburn, 19 and a member of the United States Navy, lost a decision to Sammy Burke of Las Cruces, New Mexico; Thursday night in the 139-pound class.

"I'd say it was an even fight all the way until the third round," said Livermore coach Tony Ramirez about Washburn's loss to Burke. "Rod tired. Usually, he never tires."

Despite the loss, Washburn apparently absorbed less punishment than his opponent.

"In the showers afterwards, Rod's face was unmarked. The kid he fought, his eyes were bloodshot," Ramirez said. "Rod's a tough kid I thought it was a pretty good fight."

The stocky ex-Granada High School student broke his hand in a navy regional fight in Seattle and was recovering from that injury.

"We're going to lay him off for a year," Ramirez went on "We didn't want him to fight, but it was the Olympic Trials. There's not many kids 18 or 19 years old who can say they fought in the Olympic Trials."

'Jinxed' Giants fall again

CANDLESTICK PARK — The San Francisco Giants, who have a knack for squandering base hits, did it again Saturday in going down to their second straight defeat at the hands of the Atlanta Braves, 3-2.

This time, the frustrated Giants outhit their opponents, 10-7, but failed to cash in as luckless Jim Barr suffered his fourth defeat against one victory.

Lefthander Roger Moret picked up the pitching win, his first with the Braves, but needed late inning relief help from Adrian Devini and Max Leon.

Atlanta jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Barr walked leadoff batter Roland Office and Lee Lacy moved him up a base with a perfect sacrifice bunt. Barr retired Jimmy Wynn on a grounder, shortstop to first base, but Darrell looped a single to short center, scoring Office.

San Francisco got that one right back in the initial frame as rookie Larry Herndon continued his hot hitting with a single to left. Chris Arnold, playing second base for Derrel Thomas, who was out with the flu, forced Herndon on a grounder to shortstop. But second baseman Lacy's relay to first went wild and Arnold wound up on second.

Bobby Murcer then drilled a single to left to bring in Arnold for a 1-1 score.

Wynn, who came to the Braves in a trade from the Los Angeles Dodgers, demonstrated why they call him "The Toy Cannon" in the third inning when he connected on a Barr fast ball and sent it over the left field fence for his fourth homerun of the season.

The Braves hiked their margin to 3-1 in the sixth inning on a single by Evans and a double down the left field line by catcher Biff Pocoroba for what proved to be the margin of victory for the visiting tossers.

The Giants made a run for it in the last inning before bowing out on their now too familiar "too little, too late" routine that sent 5,775 fans home unhappy.

Willie Montanez doubled to right center off Devine, who was going along smoothly after relieving Moret in the top of the eighth inning. Ken Reitz moved Montanez along a base with an infield grounder and Willie dashed home as Mark Hill was being retired unassisted by first sacker Evans.

Pinch - hitter Glenn Adams re - kindled the faint hope for victory with a single and Herndon drew a walk with two away off Leon, a curve ball specialist. But it ended shortly after as Steve Ontiveros, pinch - hitting for Craig Robinson, lofted a fly deep to right center that Office caught on the warning track.

Manager Bill Rigney will send Ed Halicki (2-6) and John (the Count) Montefusco (4-3) to the mound in today's doubleheader in an effort to gain a standoff in the four-game set. The Braves will counter with Phil Niekro, the knuckle - ball specialist (3-3) and Dick Ruthven (4-4) which includes a shutout against the Giants.

Quarrie ties 100 record

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Olympian Don Quarrie of Jamaica became the latest sprinter to match the world record time of 9.9 seconds for 100 meters Saturday when he edged the University of Tennessee's Reggie Jones in the event at the 35th California Relays.

Quarrie equaled the winning time turned in earlier Saturday by Steve Williams at the Martin Luther King games in Atlanta. Williams already shared the record with several others.

Despite a poor start, Jones came on to finish second in 10 flat in the Modesto meet. He is one of America's top Olympic candidates in the sprints, along with Williams, Houston McTear and Harvey Glance who competed at Atlanta.

The wind gauge read 1.7 mph, well under the allowable limit at the time of Quarrie's victory.

Quarrie broke the meet record of 10 flat which was shared by Jim Hines, one of the men who also has run a 9.9.

Recently dethroned world record holder Al Feuerbach got off a toss of 71 feet, 4 inches, his best in several years, and defeated another Olympic shot putter, George Woods, who reached 70-11¾. Woods' big throw, on his second attempt, set a meet record, but Feuerbach wiped it out a minute later.

Feuerbach's world mark of 71-7, set in 1973 in his home town of San Jose, Calif., stood until this spring when the University of Hawaii's Terry Albritton threw 71-8½.

The first meet record to fall Saturday was in the women's javelin. Kathy Schmidt of the Los Angeles Track Club threw 211-5.

CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON
ALAMEDA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA
ORDINANCE NO. 782
AN ORDINANCE AMENDING IN

LEGAL NOTICE

ITS ENTIRETY CHAPTER 10, TITLE II (ZONING AND DEVELOPMENT) OF THE ORDINANCE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON RELATING TO THE PRESERVATION OF TREES ON PRIVATE PROPERTY.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON DOES HEREBY ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Chapter 10, Title II (Zoning and Development) of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton relating to the Preservation of Trees on Private Property is amended in its entirety as follows:

Chapter 10. PRESERVATION OF TREES ON PRIVATE PROPERTY

Article I

Purpose and Definitions

Sec. 2-17.01 Purpose and Intent. The City of Pleasanton lies largely in a valley substantial portions of which were and are covered by large oak, sycamore, palm, locust, walnut, eucalyptus, buckeye, willow and other native or indigenous trees. The City recognizes that preservation of such trees enhances the natural scenic beauty, sustains the long term potential increase in property values which encourages quality development, maintains the ecology, moderates the effect of extreme temperatures, prevents erosion of topsoil, helps create an identity and quality in the City which is necessary for successful business to continue, enhances the attractiveness of the City to visitors and increases the oxygen output of the area which is needed to combat air pollution. For these reasons the Council finds that in order to promote the public health, safety and general welfare of the City of Pleasanton while at the same time recognizing individual rights to develop private property in a manner which will not be prejudicial to the public interest it is necessary to enact regulations controlling the removal and preservation of such hereinafter described "heritage" trees within the City of Pleasanton.

Sec. 2-17.02 Definitions. For the purpose of this chapter, certain words and terms used herein are defined as follows:

a. "Heritage Tree" shall mean any of the following:

1. Any tree with a circumference of forty (40) inches or more measured two and one-half feet above ground level.

2. Any tree thirty-five feet or more in height.

3. Any tree of particular historical significance specifically designated by official action.

4. A stand of trees the nature of which makes each dependent upon the others for survival.

b. "Director" shall mean the City Manager or his designated representative.

Sec. 2-17.03 Exceptions. The provisions of this Chapter shall not apply to fruit or, when part of an orchard, to nut bearing trees the product of which is used for commercial purposes.

Article 2

Permit Procedure

Sec. 2-17.05 Permit Required. No person shall cut down, destroy or remove any heritage tree growing within the City limits from any property without a permit except as provided herein.

Sec. 2-17.06 Permit Procedures. Any person desiring to cut down, destroy or remove one or more heritage trees on any property in the City of Pleasanton shall make application to the Director. Said application shall contain the number, species, size and location of trees to be cut down, destroyed or removed and a brief statement of the reason for removal as well as any other pertinent information he may require. The permit, if granted, shall entitle the applicant to remove one or more designated trees existing on the property involved. Prior to the issuance of such permit the Director shall visit and inspect the property, the tree or trees in question, and the surrounding area and shall ascertain the following:

a. The condition of the tree with respect to disease, general health, damage, public nuisance, danger of falling, proximity to existing or proposed structures, interference with utility service and whether or not the tree acts as a host for a plant which is parasitic to another species of tree which is in danger of being exterminated by the parasite.

b. The necessity to remove the tree in order to construct any proposed improvements to allow economic enjoyment of the property.

c. The number of existing trees in the neighborhood or area on improved property and the effect removal would have upon the public health, safety, general welfare or residents and upon the property and beauty of the area.

d. The topography of the land upon which the tree or trees are situated and the effect of removal thereof upon erosion, soil retention, and diversion or flow of surface waters.

e. Good forestry practices, i.e. the number of healthy trees that a given parcel of land will support.

The Director may refer any application to any City department or commission for a report and recommendation.

Sec. 2-17.07 Action by Director, Findings. The Director shall issue a permit to remove a tree or trees if it is determined that one of the following conditions exist:

a. The tree is in such a dangerous or hazardous condition as to threaten or endanger the safety of people, structures, other property, or other heritage trees.

b. The tree is dead or substantially dead and good forestry practices cannot be reasonably undertaken to preserve the tree.

Sec. 2-17.08 City Council Consideration. If the Director determines that a tree does not meet the conditions of Section 2-17.07, he shall refer the application to the City Clerk who shall set a date for hearing before the City Council. The Director shall submit a report to the Council setting forth the factual determinations required by Section 2-17.06, along with any departmental recommendations. The Council may conduct a public hearing on the application, however, compliance with Sec. 2-5.08 (Public Hearing and Notice) is not required. The City Council shall issue a permit to remove a tree or trees if it determines that:

a. The removal of tree is consistent with the purposes and intent of this chapter; and

LEGAL NOTICE

b. The removal is in keeping with the health, safety and general welfare of the community; and

c. Where diseased, good forestry practices cannot reasonably be undertaken to preserve the tree.

Article 3.

Preserving Heritage Trees

Sec. 2-17.09 Preservation and Maintenance of Existing Trees.

a. When proposed developments encroach into the drip line area of any tree, special construction to allow the roots to breathe and obtain moisture shall be required as determined by the Director.

b. The existing ground surface within four (4) feet (measured horizontally) of the base of any tree shall not be cut, filled or compacted. Tree wells may be used where advisable. Excavation adjacent to any tree shall not be permitted where damage to the root system will result.

c. No oil, gas, chemical, heavy construction machines or other construction materials shall be stored within ten (10) feet of any tree.

d. No wires, unless those needed for support of the tree, or signs other than small tree identification signs shall be attached to any tree.

e. The Director shall be notified by the contractor or developer or owner of any damage that occurs to a tree during construction so that proper treatment may be administered by the contractor.

f. All pruning of Heritage Trees shall comply with guidelines established by the Director.

Sec. 2-17.10. Other Tree Provisions. The provisions of this article shall supplement but not supplant other provisions of this code relating to the preservation of trees.

Section 2. This Ordinance shall become effective 30 days after it has been duly adopted.

Section 3. This Ordinance shall be published once within fifteen (15) days after its adoption in "The Times", a newspaper of general circulation published and circulated in the City of Pleasanton.

Grand Opening Pleasanton! Our newest vintage crop.

The rolling hills of a former vineyard, overlooking the delightful Amador Valley, could be the site of your gracious new H. C. Elliott home.

For the first time since last year, beautiful new homes, on spacious, elevated lots, are available in the Elliott community of Vintage Hills in desirable Pleasanton. Vintage Hills is a homeowner's dream come true. The environment is superb, as are the value and quality of five distinctive 3, 4 and 5 bedroom floor plans. The entire Bay Area is easily accessible via convenient interstate highways. Schools are excellent and recreation facilities unequaled. There's one more vital ingredient in the Vintage Hills formula. It's the fact that you'll be looking into homes designed and constructed by H. C. Elliott, Inc., a firm that has marketed more than 8,000 dwellings to satisfied Californians over the past 30 years. Come and inspect our vintage crop today. We think you'll be impressed.

Models are open from 10 a.m. 'till dusk.
